THE ACCOUNTS AUDITED

MINE WORKERS' FUND INCREASED | Want free silver, but because they want to be called Democrats. The Gold Democrats $13,000 DURING THE STRIKE.

President Mitchell Will Be Here To-Day for a Few Hours-Other Matters.

The auditing committee of the United Mine Workers finished the work of auditing Secretary-Treasurer Wilson's accounts for the quarter ending Oct. 1, Saturday night, and the showing is very encouraging to the organization. At the beginning of the quarter there was a balance of $68,000 in the treasury and at the end, although the strike in the anthracite region in Pennsylvania was on two weeks, the balance was $81,000, an increase of $13,000. This is a remarkable showing, considering the magnitude of the strike which perhaps, was the largest ever inaugurated, throwing 141,000 men out of employment. Secretary Wilson says the large increase is due to the rapid enrollment of members of the organization. Another feature in considering the financial increase is the fact that dues of miners are always suscite region. Yet a larger financial inbank account. At the end of October he had $99,000 in the bank, with a few outstanding checks remaining to be canceled. This covers the entire period of the strike and is a substantial increase over the and is a substantial increase over the preceding quarter. The organization has also been at a heavy expense, having paid out for the quarter ending Oct. 1 $55,000 in strike benefits alone, to say nothing of other expenses. The auditing committee as er expenses. The auditing committee as well as Secretary Wilson and other officials of the mine workers are highly pleased with the showing, and say it only indicates ducting a peaceful labor organization. sident John Mitchell will arrive in where he has been since the strike began, and after a few hours' conference with Secretary Wilson, will go to his home in Illinois, where he will get a few days' rest with his family. Then he will return to tianapolis to look after the accumulated business at headquarters, and later, will again go to the anthracite region to wind up affairs there. All the officials are weil satisfied with the settlement and recognize it as the greatest victory organized labor has ever achieved. Even it an increase had not been secured, they say it would have been a great victory because the conservative attitude maintained throughout the strike has raised the public opinion of labor organizations to a much higher plane.

DEAD ON RAILROAD TRACK

The Body of James M. Stackhouse Found There.

James M. Stackhouse, forty-eight years of age, an employe of the Van Camp Packing Company, was found dead on the Big Four tracks, at East street, at Il o'clock yesterday morning, with his head crushed to the city morgue by the City Dispensary doctors. Coroner Nash, who viewed the body, said death undoubtedly resulted from hemorrhage, resulting from the fracture at the base of the skull. No limbs were

FIRST VOTERS FOR M'KINLEY

COL. MARTIN TALKS OF THE VOTE OF GOLD DEMOCRATS.

Senators Fairbanks and Beveridge Predict a Great Republican Victory-Political Gossip.

The work of the campaign, as far as the Republicans of Indiana are concerned, among the party leaders of this city there as to the national or state tickets. Notwithstanding the absurd claims of the Democrats of the State, the belief is general among Republicans that the Republican national ticket will go through in Indiana by a greater majority than it did in increased the popular distrust of his wis-1896. Secretary Mitchener, of the Lincoln League, wrote a personal letter to a Democratic friend yesterday in which he declared the belief that indiana would roll up a majority of 30,000, adding that he "would not be surprised if the majority was 50,000."

Democratic vote in Indiana will be cast for McKinley through the influence of the Lincoln League organization. He estimates that fully 4,000 voters who were Bryan men in 1896 are now identified with the Lincoln fort of the opposition and of the advice of Monday's Bargain Sale League clubs. He further estimates that Mr. Croker. The people are not in a humor belonging to Democratic families will cast

Another strong factor which it is believed will be felt on election day in Indiana, and the whole country, for that matter, is the Gold Democratic vote. Colonel Martin, of lowa, who has been in charge of the Na- majority in both houses of the State Legistional Gold Democratic headquarters in $10.00, at.....$5.00 this city, has practically concluded his work. He said yesterday that he is still of the opinion that 80 per cent. of the Gold Democrats of the country will cast their ballots against Wm. J. Bryan. "I feel," said he, "that as the time draws near for men to vote a great many of the Gold Democrats who had thought they would vote for Bryan will not do it. He has wabbled about so much and has had so many issues that the Gold Democrats who thought they would vote for him this year, in order to be ir. the party, realize at last that he is the same Bryan that he was in 1896, and that his 16-to-1 hobby is still the real issue. I have always been an optimist, and four years ago I had not the least doubt of the result of the election, and I have not now. The people of the country will not elect a man like Bryan for President. I believe that 75 per cent. of the men who favor Bryan to-day are not for him because they have not become Republicans, but they believe they can best correct the evils in their own party by getting out and fighting it rather than to stay in the party and support it." Colonel Martin predicts that after his defeat in this election Bryan will go to the Populist party, where he belongs. Col. Martin is of opinion that as soon as the Democracy gets rid of its false leaders the ferson, Tilden and Cleveland.

> Secretary Elliott, of the county committee, says the Republican organization is in perfect shape for election day. It could not be in better condition, he says.

ELECTION RETURNS.

Telephone and Telegraph Companies

Will Furnish Them. The telegraph and telephone companies are preparing to handle the election news to-morrow night on an elaborate plan. The fact that the telephone companies announce that they will furnish their subscribers with election returns will relieve the newspaper offices of a great deal of extra work. Instead of calling up the newspaper offices people will be informed of the latest returns and be able to get them more quickly by calling up the telephone exchanges.

The Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies have received a good many orders from people who desire to have the returns furnished them by private wire. They get up a little party and arrange to have a telegraph instrument placed in some one's house. An operator is furnished and the news is received in this way at a cost of $25. Both State committees will receive the news by private wire and the Republican committee has arranged to receive the returns by precincts as fast as the count is ready to give out. At the headquarters of the national Gold Democrats the returns will be received by special wire and at the different theaters arrangements have been made to read returns. At the main office of the Western Union Telegraph Company thirty operators will be employed, according to Manager Butler, who says there is fully as much interest manifested in the returns from this election as there was in 1896. CAPT. ENGLISH'S GOOD WORK.

This was after he had previously made twelve speeches at various towns along the I., D. & W. It was the original intention of those in charge that Captain English should speak at four places on the route, in addition to the mass meeting at Dana, but the enthusiastic crowds at each station where he was not on the programme insisted upon calling him out for a speech-following the other speakers and the result was that he spoke at each one of the twelve stops mad nd received a great ovation at all of them.

He will take part in the parade to-day and will end the campaign by serving as inspector of election in the thirteenth pre-cinct of the Sixth ward on election day.

SENATOR FAIRBANKS'S VIEWS.

He Predicts a Great Victory at To-Morrow's Election.

Senator Fairbanks returned last night from Evansville, where he closed his speechmaking tour of the State Saturday night. The senator has delivered addresses in States from Maine to California and traveled many thousands of miles. Last night he expressed the utmost confidence in the outlook for Republican victory.

"The Republicans have gained steadily in strength from the beginning of the campaign," declared the Senator. "There has been no period of reaction, as is almost practically closed Saturday night, and always the case in every great national contest. The people generally have believed that the opposition has been insinappears to be no doubt of the result, either | cere in its advocacy of the so-called paramount issue of imperialism. The general belief is that this issue has been promulgated for the purpose of concealing issues of actual and grave import. Mr. Bryan has grown constantly weaker from the begin-ning. His canvass has by no means added to his strength. His uterances have merely dom and capacity. The course of the President has been in striking and agreeable contrast. The more the issues have been discussed, the more the policy of the administration has been considered, confidence in it has increased. The Republicans have been fortunate in being able to point not only to a successful administration of Mr. Mitchener says that a substantial national affairs, but to a very successful administration of State affairs as well State issues have, however, been largely subordinated to national issues.

"The election of McKinley is already assured by a very decisive vote. He will carry Indiana, regardless of the determined efmethods inaugurated by the opposition in Southern States, and it is not likely that any attempt will be made to follow Mr. Croker's advice to any considerable extent. "The entire State ticket will be elected by a handsome plurality. We shall have a lature, and we shall hold our present repre-sentation in Congress, and may possibly increase it by the election of one or two Senator Fairbanks feels that a note of warning to earnest, conscientious Republicans is timely. "It is of the utmost ne cessity," he said, "that the people of the State who are interested in the continuance of the present national administration and the existing prosperous condition of our affairs should make every honorable effort to insure the poiling of a full vote Tuesday, thereby securing the largest possible victory.'

SENATOR BEVERIDGE HERE.

The Democrats offered to bet even money that the county would go their way. This made the Republicans suspicious, and they began to investigate. Election Returns to Be Received at 32 Monument Place.

To-morrow night all the newspapers of the city will conduct the joint election news bureau at 32 Monument place. All election officers are requested to send the returns to 32 Monument place as early as possible instead of to the individual newspaper offices. Each newspaper will have a corps of men at the headquarters all night to receive and tabulate the returns. It is only in this way, and with the co-operation of the election officers, that satisfactory election news service can be furnished by the newspapers.

ADVICE TO HIS FLOCK

Rev. James W. Carr. of the Second Baptist Church, colored, preached on politics last night. He used for his subject the text "Lift up a standard for the people," Isaiah lxii, 10. The minister first explained that he believed he was in the right in addressing his people on politics and said he was prepared to stand by what he said. He said it is the duty of the pastor of a church to look after the interests of his people, and he considered politics a factor in their common welfare. In part he said: "A standard or ensign was used by the children of Israel to designate the various tribes of Israel. The same method is used to-day to distinguish certain or various ciasses. The standard of distinction and be properly estimated or valued without in order to ascertain what is for best interests from a political point of view, it is very necessary to consider what each political party represents that is striving for pre-eminence next Tuesday. "We are aware that there are good and bad men in all parties, and while this is true, shall we condemn all men for what a Beem, department commander of the Inchurches. Occasionally a Judas will be detected in the church. Shall we denounce and condemn its mission because of a few nonrepresentative hypocrites? The history and record of the church will commend its work for ages to come. The history and work of the church will serve to illustrate the design and usefulness of the politica party we represent. There is no question in the mind of any negro as to which party fought for our liberty, citizenship and privilege of voting. It is also no secret as to which political party is disfranchising our people in the South. Every negro in the country ought to lay our tyrant and bitterest enemy, Tillman, on the altar of prayer and ask the Lord to do His will. WORD OF WARNING.

"In the midst of conflicting representations the herald of the gospel or God's watchman is commanded to 'lift up the standard for the people.' The Lord said to the Prophet Ezekiel, 'O, son of man, I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel to warn them.' The prophet was to warn them of any impending danger likely to invade the land. In this connection the duty of the minister may be observed, for it is the indispensable duty of the minister of the gospel to watch out for the spiritual and political interest of his church. If it is not the duty of the minister to warn the people of the evils of Bryanism and Tillmanism, then I do not think it necessary to warn sinners to flee from the wrath of God. For just as sure as you vote for and elect Bryan, business prosperity is dead for the next four years. "Our duty is to lift up the standard. This thought brings to our minds the fact of all being concerned. I mean that the entire family should read, discuss and be somewhat posted on political questions. All will admit the political problem is very peculiar, and so no man who does not understand something about strategy and wire-pulling is not considered even a ward heeler. In view of the fact that there are many of our people who do not understand politics, and if they do desire to comprehend the meaning thereof they have not the time to devote to study, I hold that the minister should be well enough posted along political lines to be able to instruct PREACHER AND POLITICS. "Some have said they do not think preachers should have anything to do with politics. Well, he could afford to have nothing to do with politics if politics would let him alone. When a preacher is not concerned in the general interests of his people. I think he had better go to heaven where he will have nothing to do, for there will be plenty for us to do while we stay here. I do not mean that a minister should take a part in fourth-class politics, for that is of a low grade. I believe, with a certain degree of discretion and moderation, at minister may take a part in politics which will result in good. Do not forget the Lord commanded us to lift up a true standard for the people. Now, just as true as the minister is a representative man he represents the better class of the people. The counsel and advice of the minister is sought when all else fails to console.

"The very thought of an immoral man representing moral and religious people is absurd. It is as impossible as for me to represent China. I am sure, in many instances, the grand old party has suffered political defeat because of failure to con-fer with the minister. As I have intimated, it is the duty of every family to consider politics in lifting up 'the standard of the people,' upon which may be seen inscribed golden letters, the Republican party, McKinley, Roosevelt and all the rest. "The duty of all manly men should be to vote the straight Republican ticket because they are men of principle, and not. therefore, 'revenue' Republicans. A man that would sell his vote or would allow himself to be persuaded to vote for the party which enslaved our fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, should be disfranchised, and in no respect, could be called a manly man. Neither can he be considered a man with a standard of much knowledge or wise decision DISFRANCHISEMENT OF NEGROES.

"My dear friends, can it be reasonably believed that the party which is disfranchising our people in the South and adopting Jim Crow car laws, are our friends? Muir Millinery Company, of this city, both I would say a thousand times, no! For quite true is the old maxim, 'the straw shows and is truly no difficult feat, for the purwhich way the wind blows.' I do not believe there is a negro in all this country "Allow me to ask you what political party is responsible for the thousands of advertisements in the weekly papers, inquiring for fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters, children, wives, husbands and friends? In some instances mothers have been known to marry their sons. In many instances husbands and wives were parted and sold like cattle. There was no regard for that divine law, 'What God hath joined together, let Nov. 7, and to 8:30 a. m. Thursday, Nov. 8, no man put asunder.' Little children were taken from broken-hearted mothers and will never be seen by their mothers again until resurrection morn. Who would dare to say that if it were not for the Republican party the same state of affairs would exist to-day? In the face of all these undeniable facts I would ask what negro can stamp the chicken circle next Tuesday? In the name of God, I want you to lift up the eagle standard next Tuesday, which means the election of McKinley and Roosevelt and "The elevation of a McKinley standard means to vote a straight Republican ticket. For God's sake don't undertake to do any scratching, for you don't understand how to do that and save your vote. Just vote for every man on the ticket, from a dog constable up to McKinley. The result of this reasoning is but the outgrowth of religious and patriotic principles, for upon our standpany, and the dispatches of our special correspondents all over our field. IMPRESSIVE SERVICES AT CEN-TRAL-AVENUE CHURCH.

The Annual Ceremony in Honor of Indiana's Great War Governor Is Held.

ADDRESS BY LEW WALLACE, JR.

HE PAYS TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF THE GREAT MAN.

Remarks by Department Commander Beem-A Letter from Rev. D. R. Lucas Read.

The sterling character, unimpeachable integrity, wise statesmanship and incalculable services to the State of Inciana of Oliver P. Morton, its great war Governor, were once more commemorated in an interesting and impressive memorial service, conducted under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic in Central-avenue Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday afternoon. These services are held annually, and frequent repetition fails to lessen their attendance or dim their in-

The large audience yesterday was made up of Governor Morton's compeers in civil and military life, of their juniors and many women, both old and young-all filled with a desire to do honor to the great man's memory. A musical programme of exceptional beauty and appropriateness was rendered by the church choir, under significance is what I wish to consider at the direction of Edgar M. Cawley. This this time. Nothing of man's production can | included a song, "The Noblest Work," and meorial hymn, the compositions of C. E. Merrifield, written especially for the occasion, in addition to a number of inspiring anthems. The invocation was offered by Rev. Charles C. Lasby, pastor of Centralavenue Church, after whch David E. few traitors have done? There are also good diana G. A. R., presented a brief eulogy and bad persons connected with the of Governor Morton Commander Beem of Governor Morton. Commander Beem said in part:

"Within our borders there were more than 200,000 whose hearts were touched with the live coals of patriotism, and who were ready to go forth in defense of the flag of the Union, but in that awful crisis the people needed a master to call them to the front, to guide them, to organize them for battle and to care for them during the years of bloody strife upon which they were about to enter. God in this emergency of our State called to the head of affairs a courageous heart and a strong arm to hurl his mighty energies against the de-structive forces of the hour. How well Oliver P. Morton, the great war Gover-nor of Indiana, peformed the gigantic task assigned him it is our duty to here declare as best we may."

THE PRINCIPAL ORATOR. Lewis Wallace, jr., nephew of Major General Wallace, was next presented as the principal orator of the occasion. Mr. Wallace devoted a large portion of his carefully prepared paper to a discussion of the early training and surroundings of Governor Morton, showing that these titted him thoroughly for the performance of the great tasks imposed upon him when the war began and during its continuance. Mr. "Placed at the head of the government

mander-in-chief of its military forces; tecame such in fact, and not merely in name, and brought to the office practical capacity that pursued practical objects by direct means, freedom that burst through all unreasonable bonds, energy that pushed him forward and yielded to nothing but the guiding restraints of his love for his country and its institutions. He was the leader of strong intellect, who believed his cause to be sacred, and that he was fighting for all that was dear to him and his country. No obstacles could stop, no impediments hinder such a giant. The affairs of our State were in their worst plight, 'her treasury bankrupt,' says Mr. Foulke; 'her credit poor, frauds everywhere, no money, no arms, no ammunition, 10 militia, except on paper-and even this or-ganization in the hands of officers, many of whom were in sympathy with rebellion -a Legislature with a formidable minor ity, reluctant and revolutionary, having the power and the will to stop even the most needful measures of public defense -such was the condition of the State when the most gigantic war in American history broke out, and demanded resources and energy for which prosperous times and undivided patriotism would seem barely sufficient. Yet, unappalled by a situation so desperate, knowing you and himseif. Morton, upon the first news of the fall of half of the State of Indiana I tender to you for the defense of the Nation and to uphold the authority of the government 10,000 men.' And in such circumstances no one could have sent that message but a volunteer soldier of the United States of

"Controlled by the vital principle of our race, he fought, as you all fought, for the Republic as the best and surest means of preserving to all citizens the blessings of orderly liberty. His practical sense apprehended government merely as a practical instrumentality of the people. It had in his eyes only practical purposes to serve, and he did not see among these any reasons for the material glitter and magnificence by which barbaric rulers impress their ignorant subjects and make their dominion firmer. We erect state and nation to conduct the public affairs committed to them respectively and to preserve personal freedom from its own self-destructive tendencies and from all external harm. And before, during and after the war Morton tended and strove towards the full realization of this ideal as at once the most practically beneficent and the most sacred of all earthly possibilities. * * *

CARDINAL CHARACTERISTICS. "To advert to any of the multitude and variety of details of his labors and accomplishments would extend this address far beyond proper limits. To raise before the mind the cardinal characteristics of the man and his deeds must content us, pose which pervaded all his thoughts and actions is apparent and unmistakable. It appears in his speeches against secession. in his early perception and declaration of the need for ending slavery, in his prompt offer of troops to sustain the national government, in the strain of his great faculties to organize, equip, handle, care for and make effective the troops so offered and the others which followed, in his assumption and exercise of all executive functions of the State, in his dispersion of combined treason within the State, in his treatment of the treasonable General Assembly, in his stern insistence after the war upon gaining the full object for which loyal citizens of the Nation had contended in his love for friends, in his hatred for enemies, in his whole great and noble personality it appears plainly. Consistent ever, he struggled through that awful contest to carry forward the vital principle of our race, which is freedom restrained by freedom-loving reason, and after the war closed he persevered still to give true direction to the racial forces as they accumulated for the next onward movement. Knowing the imperative requirements for some regulation of personal freedom he believed in law-in our man-made law-as the sole and as the sufficient means for its government in all temporal affairs, and, right and great Hoosier that he was, he wavered not in preaching or performing this American religion, which is faith in the Republic and its laws."

Rev. Dr. D. R. Lucas was on the programme to deliver a few remarks, but was prevented from being in attendance. His paper was read by Mrs. Rumpler, his daughter, and its lofty, patriotic sentiments were received with applause. The exercises were closed with prayer by Rev. Samuel Sawyer.

decorated in honor of the occasion, flags being used with excellent effect in draping the altar, organ and balcony. Those who occupied places on the platform with Dr. Lasby and Mr. Wallace were Rev. Samuel Sawyer, Commander Beem, Admiral George Brown and Col. Ivan N. Walker.

MISS TALBOTT'S DEATH.

There Is Now but One of the Family Surviving.

Miss Annabelle Talbott, twenty-three years old, died at the Delano yesterday afternoon of a stomach trouble. She had been ill but a few days and her death came unexpectedly. Miss Talbott was well known in the city. Last summer her mother died, her father has been dead several years, and only one of the family, Miss Laura Talbott, survives. The funeral will be held at 2:30 o-morrow afternoon.
